

AMERISAFE HAS A NEW MINIMUM PREMIUM OF $5,000

SUBMISSION REQUIREMENTS

- ACORD 130
- Loss runs with detailed loss summary for the years covered by the experience mod
- Current Experience Mod Worksheet

AMERISAFE accepts submissions 120 days in advance of the current expiration date.

Q Are there any exceptions to the $5,000 lower minimum premium change?

A 99% of our available classes will be subject to the $5,000 policy minimum premium. However, there are exceptions due to the nature of those classes. The following classes will continue to have the same minimum premium requirements we have today:

- $15,000 minimum premiums continue to apply to the following classes:
 - Non-mechanized logging minimum premium
 - Sawmill operations (includes class codes – 2710, 2731, 2759 and 2960)
- $10,000 minimum premiums continue to apply to the following classes:
 - Residential Roofing
 - Commercial Window Washing
 - Florida New Venture Roofing (residential and commercial)

Q If I had a submission get denied due to being under the previous $10,000 minimum, can I resubmit since the minimum has decreased?

A Yes, contact your underwriter to initiate the resubmission process or contact underwritingservices@amerisafe.com

Q Does this change affect AMERISAFE's position on New Ventures?

A There are no changes to AMERISAFE's current position on underwriting New Ventures.

Q Are there any experience mod rating requirements now that the minimum premiums are lowering to $5,000?

A An experience mod rating is not a requirement.

Q How will up-front Safety Visits be handled now that the minimum premium is dropping to $5,000?

A Our Safety Professionals will be utilizing phone surveys in most instances to fast track these submissions through the underwriting process.

Q Will there be any restrictions/limitations to pay plan availability as a result of lowering the minimum premiums to $5,000?

A All AMERISAFE pay plans will be available to customers at the $5,000 minimum premium level.

Q Will there be any changes to current interim and final audit procedures as a result of the lower minimum premiums?

A There will be no changes to our audit procedures as a result of the lower minimum premium changes.
