ARC EXCESS & SURPLUS, LLC
A CRC GROUP COMPANY

Why ARC?

Specialized Knowledge. Technical Sophistication. Broker Advocacy.

Before joining CRC Group, ARC had established itself as one of the nation's leading specialty wholesale insurance distributors, placing approximately $1 billion in annual premium and earning a nationally recognized reputation for excellence across executive and professional lines.

For more than 30 years, we have built our business around a commitment to specialized knowledge and technical proficiency.

TECHNICAL KNOWLEDGE APPLIED TO COMPLEX RISKS

We often say, "Our least technical person would be the most technical person in the room somewhere else." It's a bold statement, but our client base helps explain why we can make it.

Many of the insurance carriers retail brokers work with every day choose ARC to place their own corporate insurance programs. So do private equity firms and other sophisticated organizations operating within the insurance ecosystem.

When companies that manufacture, underwrite, and distribute insurance trust ARC with their own risk, it speaks to the technical sophistication of our team.

Our brokers bring deep industry experience to every account. Many have backgrounds in underwriting, financial institutions and other specialized areas of the insurance industry, while others are licensed attorneys with significant legal and transactional experience.

ACCESS IS ONLY THE BEGINNING

Direct market access alone does not guarantee that coverage terms will align with a client's needs.

The difference can be buried in the details: policy wording, exclusions, definitions, sublimits, endorsements and seemingly minor provisions that can materially change how a policy responds.

That is where ARC's technical knowledge and detailed coverage analysis can add value.

We conduct extensive policy comparisons, identify coverage deficiencies and negotiate improvements that may otherwise be overlooked. Our job isn't simply to obtain a quote. It's to understand what the client is actually buying.

NATIONAL SCALE. SPECIALIZED ATTENTION.

ARC brings together more than 30 years of specialty insurance experience, six offices across the country, relationships with more than 250 carrier partners, more than 125 established territories and relationships with more than 2,000 retail brokers nationwide.

Today, ARC combines its specialized capabilities with the broader resources of CRC Group.

BUILT AROUND THE RETAIL BROKER

We understand deadlines. We understand pressure, and we understand that technical knowledge delivers greater value when paired with responsive service.

Our goal is to make the wholesale placement process straightforward and efficient.

We don't overwhelm our retail partners or their clients with unnecessary complexity. We distill complicated coverage issues into clear, actionable information and keep the process moving.

Our teams communicate across offices, specialties and leadership groups so that our clients benefit from the collective knowledge of the organization—not simply the experience of one individual broker.

Whether an account is small or highly complex, it receives the same respect, urgency and commitment.

MORE THAN PLACEMENT

ARC's value extends well beyond market access.

We provide sophisticated benchmarking, extensive coverage analysis, innovative solutions and tools, API accommodations and customized product and program development for our retail partners.

We continually look for opportunities to create new solutions when the traditional marketplace doesn't adequately address a client's needs.

And our commitment continues after a policy is bound.

ARC invests substantially in in-house claims advocacy because the true value of an insurance program is ultimately tested when a claim occurs. We advocate alongside our retail partners and their clients when it matters most.

THE ARC DIFFERENCE

Wholesale brokerage should provide more than access to a market. It should provide specialized knowledge that helps identify coverage considerations, relationships that expand placement options, support that continues beyond placement, and technology that makes business easier. Our team that understands that our success is ultimately measured by the success of our retail partners.

Technical when it matters. Responsive when it counts. Advocates at every step.
